

Thirdrock appoints new economist

May 8, 2018

Jamus Lim will provide Thirdrock's client advisors and clients with timely macro commentary, strategic perspectives and in-depth analysis.

Thirdrock Group has appointed Jamus Lim as Economist with effect from March 2018, the Singapore-based firm said in a statement.

Based in Singapore, Lim will provide Thirdrock's client advisors and clients with timely macro commentary, strategic perspectives and in-depth analysis.

At this new role, Lim will be reporting to Jason Lai, Founder and CEO, Thirdrock Group.

Lim joins the firm from Abu Dhabi Investment Authority where he was lead economist overseeing economic inputs underlying tactical and strategic asset allocation for the sovereign fund's multi-hundred billion dollar portfolio.

Prior to that, he was a senior economist with the World Bank where he led a number of research initiatives on long-term economic forecast, trade and finance in the Middle East and East Asia and governance and human development in Africa.

Founded in 2010, Thirdrock is an independent investment management group headquartered in Singapore, servicing and advising accredited high net worth investors and corporate clients globally.
