Thirdrock adds senior wealth professional to team

30 Sep 2015 by The Asset

Singapore-based Thirdrock Group has hired wealth management veteran Dominique Barazzone as senior client advisor, effective September 28 2015. The former Citi private banker brings over 40 years of extensive global investment and client advisory experience and will help expand Thirdrock's wealth management business.

Prior to joining Thirdrock Group Barazzone was senior banker and team head at Citi Private Bank where he managed the wide-ranging financial needs of ultra high-net worth individuals across Asia. Barazzone, who started his career at Basle Securities, has held senior wealth management positions in different geographies, including Dubai, London, Hong Kong, Geneva and New York, with leading institutions such as Swiss Bank Corp. and Lombard Odier Private Asset Management.

"We are pleased to have Dominique on our team," says Jason Lai, CEO and Found, Thirdrock Group. "With his breadth and depth of experience in business development and relationship management across the globe, we are confident that his leadership and comprehensive wealth management expertise will benefit our clients and drive our efforts in expanding our business."

Last month, Thirdrock Group also added another private banking veteran Eric Chong to its wealth management team. Specializing in Foreign Exchange trading and strategic implementation, Chong spent a decade at Standard Chartered Bank as a FX strategist and another at Citi Private Bank where he was instrumental in developing their business, prior to joining Thirdrock.
